"When manly Jack, on his pony's back
Sets forth to take a ride,
The donkey must carry the baby, Harry,
And Freddy a stick will stride."

"If up the mountains
you fain would go,
And cannot a donkey ride,
You may take a chair, if there's one to spare,
And make a horse of your guide."

: Switzerland :
— the "Chaise-a-porteur." —

"Heavy oxen draw the wains,
 Over meadows, over plains
 Turning right or left you know,
 As the teamster bids them go."

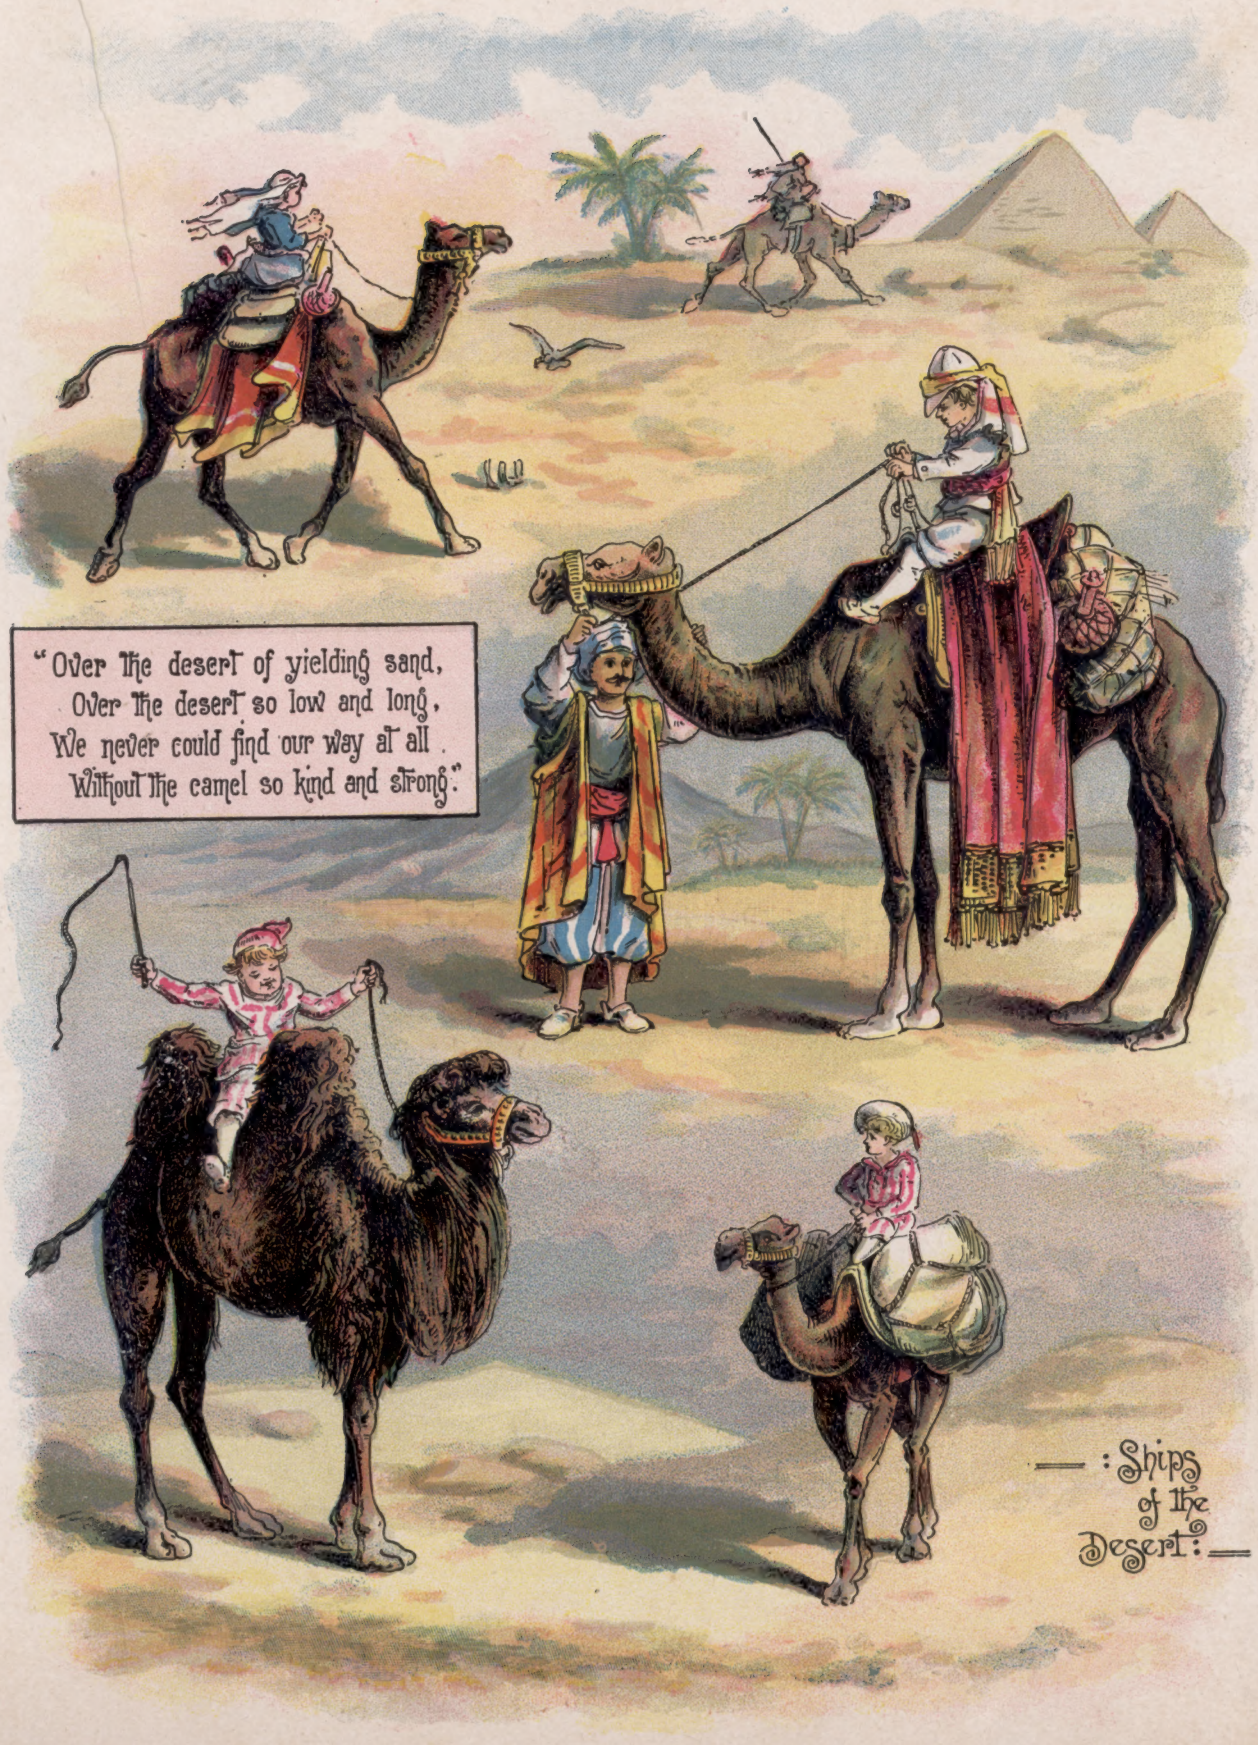

— :Bullock Wāgōng: —

"This is the Emperor's elephant
Caparisoned so gay,
And only the Royal family
Can ride in this gorgeous way."

India: Elephant Riding: —

"Over the desert of yielding sand,
Over the desert so low and long,
We never could find our way at all
Without the camel so kind and strong."

“Winter with its sports is here! now the sleigh-bells jingle!
And in carols, loud and clear, merry voices mingle!
Boys and girls are out with sleds, all alive and hearty.
We’re in luck if we can go with a sleighing-party!”

"Whenever the fur clad Esquimau
Is ready To Take a Trip,
He fastens his dogs to his sled, and away
They dash at the crack of the whip!"

—: Arctic Regions · Dog Sledge :—

The Laplander tucks himself in a sledge
With plenty of warm robes o'er him.
And over the snow and ice he glides
As he drives the reindeer before him.

: Lapland : The Reindeer Sledge :

"The folks in Japan when they take a drive,
At any hour of the day,
Get into a cart, made with curious art,
That they call a Jin-rik-i-sha."

:Japan;
her Ladyships
Carriage.

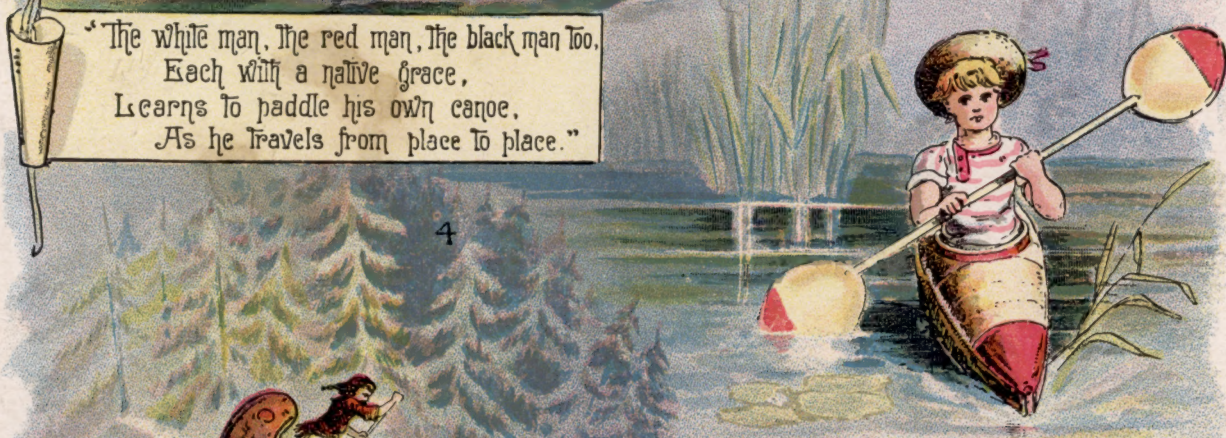

"Between a couple of bamboo poles
With an easy chair in the middle,
And a Chinese coolie at either end
You can ride as fine as a fiddle"

: China : The Mountain Chair :—

"The white man, the red man, the black man too,
Each with a native grace,
Learns to paddle his own canoe,
As he travels from place to place."

"The sails are set and the breezes blow;
On the deep blue sea we're afloat;
And away we go, and 'tis joy to know
That ours is the fastest boat."
